108 Children Are Confirmed

LEGAL.—On Sunday, June 25, the parishioners of Legal were honored by the presence of His Honor Archbishop McDonald, who was coming to give the holy sacrament of confirmation to approximately 108 of our children.

New War Crisis

As this is written, radio news broadcasts are flooding out to an anxious Alberta a steady stream of war crisis flashes arising out of the Asiatic war that has flared in Korea.

Albertans, with other people, are hoping that it will be nothing more than a crisis that will somehow pass, but the threat of World War III is now more ominous and real than ever before.

In Korea, the Russian-backed northerners have invaded the southern republic, which is supported by the United States. It is surely a testing ground for international conflict if nothing else. And if another war comes, it shall surely be said that World War III actually started on the day that Communist aggression flared in Korea.

If World War III does become a reality, Canada will certainly not be a behind-the-lines-nation, protected by a vast ocean. For armed battle will parade the streets and highways of the land, with Alberta possibly destined to the fate of another Belgium.

One can well imagine the terror that would strike in our hearts if enemy planes fill our skies, and the sorrow that we will know as our men go off to another battle.

Once again it can only be reiterated that decent peoples everywhere are praying that this is not it—that "it" will never again come to pass.

The Welfare State

Canadians are used to hearing the "welfare state" talk emanating from United States politicians, and may have by now come to believe that it is the U.S. that has the world's most extended social security system, and that our southern neighbor is spending the biggest part of its government dollar on such measures.

The actual fact is that Canada is spending far more per capita on the welfare state than is the U.S.

Last year the United States spent six cents of every budget dollar on social welfare, while Canada spent 22 cents on the same measures. But in the field of defence, the situation was somewhat different. Of every budget dollar, the U.S. spent 32 cents on military protection while Canada expended only 18 cents.

In view of this, and whether or not one is behind the welfare state idea, it seems rather funny to hear of lambasting American Republicans spouting off about the vast amount of money the Democratic Congress is spending on socialism! With only six cents of every dollar going to social welfare, such statements hardly make sense.

The United States is still the world's prime example of private enterprise and capitalism. The social welfare idea, good or bad, has hardly scratched the surface of American political thought.

Those complaining Republicans should come to Canada if they want to beef! With this country spending three times as much proportionately on welfare, they'd have three times as much to beef about!

Death in a Coal Mine

From Calgary Albertan

To the families and comrades of the coal miners killed at Cadomin, a mining community about 35 miles east of Jasper, goes a great wave of sympathy from all the people of Alberta.

Coal mining is a dangerous business under the best of conditions. One of the hazards not usually counted on is flooding. In this case a torrent of water from a mountain stream engulfed the mine and trapped the men. They had no chance.

It is encouraging to see that the miners' union at Drumheller has concurred in the need for immediate dismissal of any miner caught smoking at or in a mine. That anyone should deliberately endanger the lives of his associates is unthinkable. Thoughtlessness would be the only excuse. But under such circumstances no excuse is good enough. Every possible precaution should be taken to reduce the hazard of mining.

Diary of a News Editor

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

The chain of weeklies for which this news editor works embraces central and northern Alberta with 30-odd home-town papers, ranging in size from the South Edmonton Sun, serving the 40,000 residents of Edmonton's South Side, to such small communities as Czar, where the Clipper is read by most everyone in the district.

It is not by any means a monopoly on Alberta publishing, because there is well over 100 weeklies in the province, and in the main, it is the smaller towns that Community Publications serves.

However, we are fortunate in having some of the most promising and progressive towns in the west on our roll call. Such communities as Redwater, Lac la Biche and Morinville stand to rank among Alberta's leading towns in the very near future.

Over 100 correspondents send in news from as many communities in the province, some of it well-written and legible, but some that would harden the heart of the softest news editor.

Yet we are grateful for these correspondents who almost without fail sit down week after week to send us the news of their communities, and the doings of their friends and neighbors.

Nothing Trivial

To us it is not a trivial matter. Lives of the fine people in little towns mirror the lives of the human race everywhere. What they do may not be world-shaking, and thank God it is not, for world-shaking events are usually ones of tragedy, but they are events that are every bit as important as those recorded by the highly-paid columnists on the society pages of the New York papers.

Thus we would like to make two appeals. One to the correspondents of our papers, and one to the people whose doings are mirrored in our columns.

To the correspondent we would say that we are giving our most careful attention to your weekly letters, hoping, incidentally, that you'll not fail to send in your regular reports. We would request you to leave room at the beginning of your stories for us to write headlines, for you not to place more than one complete story on one page, to write only on one side of the paper, and to include the time-honored "30" symbol at the tail-end of each story.

More Tolerance

To the people about whom our correspondents write, we would like to make a plea for a little more tolerance and understanding on the part of a small minority who make the job of a newspaper-gatherer sometimes difficult.

There are some people, who for reasons we have honestly never been able to determine, shrink from the slightest publicity and place all sorts of obstacles in the way of correspondents, and then are insulted when their names do not appear in print!

Then of course there is the overflowing person who wants columns and columns devoted to their smallest social affair, but we think our reporters would far rather deal with friendly people than with the close-mouthed variety.

Home-Town News

Sometimes an unmean misinterpretation of some incident can cause bad feeling. An example of this is the doctor who became quite concerned over an item which reported that one of his patients had to be moved to the city for further treatment. Now the doctor was not at all at fault, and in fact had been giving excellent care to the patient, but the story neglected to mention this. So there you have an instance of a man taking exception to a story that was not intended to hurt anyone.

But in conclusion, remember that there is nothing more gratifying to a newspaper reader than to turn to his own home-town or district news. For this the correspondent is responsible. But it is not an easy job, and he sometimes gets too little thanks for his efforts.

Scriptural Meditations

By AINSLEY BLAIR

There is but little benefit derived from a hasty reading of the Scriptures. One may read the whole Bible through, and yet fail to see its beauty or comprehend its deep and hidden meaning. One passage studied until its significance is clear to the mind, and its relation to the plan of salvation is evident, is of more value than the perusal of many chapters with no definite purpose in view and no positive instruction gained. Keep your Bible with you. As you have opportunity, read it; fix the texts in your memory. Even while you are walking the streets, you may read a passage, and meditate upon it, thus fixing it in the mind.

CIVIC CENTRE

Dear Sir—The news item appearing in the South Edmonton Sun, in which a variety of opinions on the proposed Detwiler Civic Centre were expressed by businessmen of South Edmonton, brings forcibly to the attention of the writer two pertinent facts. Firstly, the South Edmonton businessmen regret the fact that a similar development is not proposed for South Edmonton. Secondly, these same businessmen regret the necessity for financing from outside of our own country.

These observations are in line with another situation which the South Side businessmen have long and volubly regretted—the lack of a proper auditorium suitable to the needs of the citizens of South Edmonton—but what have they done about it?

Two years ago, the Strathcona Legion undertook the construction of such an auditorium, to be financed by a first mortgage, interest bearing bond issues. This organization anticipated wholehearted co-operation and participation from the businessmen of South Edmonton, but such has not been the case. In fact, the stock answer to solicitation has been that the 4 per cent interest offered is not as remunerative as keeping their money in their own business.

Is this not indication of the reason why a similar scheme to the proposed Civic Centre has not been attempted in South Edmonton and why, if it were attempted, such a scheme would have to be financed from outside interests?

I might add that, not because of the South Edmonton businessmen, but in spite of them the proposed Auditorium in Strathcona will soon become a reality.

Yours truly,
A. L. HAMILTON,
South Edmonton.

JUST BARFLIES?

Dear Sir—In reply to the cowardly person who signs himself 'Veteran' may I be permitted to point out to him that if he frequented locations other than bars, he possibly could meet girls other than "100 per cent barflies."

I agree with you, though, Veteran. More Canadian soldiers should have married European girls, instead of leaving them to bring up, alone, the well-known army 'souvenirs.'

MRS. FRED BROCK
Mayerthorpe

IN DEFENCE

Dear Sir—I'm a veteran myself, my wife is a Canadian girl and as wonderfully a woman as exists. I say that vet. who said Canadian girls are no good is a liar!

Hughenden. E. H.

FORT JAIL

Dear Sir—I have just finished reading the second installment of your series on Fort Saskatchewan jail, and I must say that it's so incredible as to be almost unbelievable.

If what you say is true, then I and other Albertans, I am sure, should no longer stand for a place like Fort Saskatchewan being allowed to operate.

You score a good point in asking for a Royal Commission. A Royal Commission could find out whether what you say is true, and if it is true, then something should be done.

Edmonton. R. N.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Dear Sir—We as a family enjoy reading your paper, South Edmonton Sun more and more each week.

Could you through the columns of your paper do something about the traffic at 100 street and 82 avenue? We have street lights but one still can't cross at busy hours as the cars turning to go east on 82 avenue are almost a steady stream.

South Edmonton MRS. L. T.

GOV'T MAY FACE PENSION CRISIS

The St. Laurent Government is going to be faced with a "guns versus pensions" dilemma in 1951, says Kenneth R. Wilson, Ottawa editor of The Financial Post.

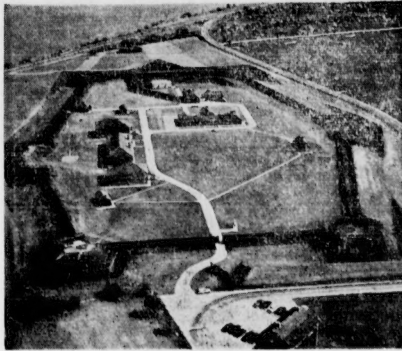

The dilemma is being brought into sharp focus for the first time by the expectation that the Parliamentary Committee on Old Age Pensions will recommend at least $40 a month, without means test, for all persons 70 or over.

The new social security program would require at least $225 millions more than at present, and a further $60 millions if means test pensions are to be paid to those aged 65 to 70.

Meanwhile, Canada's new responsibilities under the Atlantic Pact are almost certain to increase defense costs considerably.

Most of the funds for pensions or guns or both will have to come out of new taxation.

Poison Ivy Is Worst Plant Infection Known

"Poison ivy is one of the worst, if not the worst, skin-irritant plants in North America, and in their own interest everyone should not only be able to recognize it in time, but should be familiar with precautionary measures to help anyone victimized by it," says Dr. H. A. Senn, chief botanist of Canada's department of agriculture.

Poison ivy is the only native Canadian plant with a three-part leaf and white fruit and Dr. Senn points out that it is sometimes confused with Virginia creeper; but this has five-part leaves and blue fruit. The leaves of the poison ivy are arranged alternately on the woody stem, each leaf being composed of three leaflets, which is a constant character. Individual leaflets, however, vary in shape, size, texture and color and the margins may be entire or variously ciliate-toothed. In the spring the unfolding crinkly leaves of the poison ivy are noticeably reddish, later becoming green with a smooth, glassy surface.

Experienced picknickers know that one of the first things to be done on arriving at an unknown spot is to explore it and the surroundings for the possible presence of poison ivy. It generally grows as a trailing vine or an upright plant, but sometimes it may climb a tree, or a telephone pole to a considerable height. Poison ivy may also occur as a single plant, or in patches of varying size and density. It occurs in all provinces in Canada, but is most troublesome in Ontario and western Quebec, growing under varying conditions of soil and moisture and is especially prevalent along roadways, railway tracks and in rocky situations.

Poisoning may result from contact with any portion of the plant—leaves, flowers, fruits, stems or even roots—and the toxic principle is considered to be more active in early summer, but you may be a victim at any season of the year. Dogs, cats and other animals may transmit the poison, as well as clothes or tools that may have the juice of the ivy on them, and the toxic principle may persist for months.

Immediate and thorough washing with strong laundry soap and warm water as soon as contact is suspected, is one of the simplest treatments for poison ivy. Certain other skin troubles are sometimes mistaken for poison ivy injury and when in doubt, a doctor should be consulted.

Poison ivy can be eradicated either by mechanical means or using chemicals, or by a combination of these methods. Two sprayings with 2-4-D is generally recommended, where this weed killer can be used without injury to surrounding vegetation.

An illustrated circular on poison ivy may be obtained by writing the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and asking for "Poison Ivy," Publication #20.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

Jonah Was Called By God To Preach to Heathens

The Book of Jonah is entirely biographical, giving details of the doings of a member of the Jewish race, who was called by God to preach to the heathen people in the great city of Nineveh.

When the first call of God came to Jonah to preach to the people of Nineveh, the mission was so utterly displeasing to him that he fled from his native city, took a ship at Joppa, the principal seaport of Palestine, intending to sail as far as he could at that time, to Tarshish, which is believed to have been in southeastern Spain.

However, as a punishment for his unwillingness and his disobedience, a terrible storm rose while he was at sea. The sailors, in a panic of fear, decided that there was someone on board the ship who was the cause of their danger. They cast lots and Jonah was chosen as the cause of the displeasure. He confessed his guilt and was thrown overboard only to be swallowed by a great fish prepared by the Lord, and later coughed up by the fish, fully alive and rational, with a clear remembrance of all that had happened to him. While our lesson is not concerned with this experience of Jonah, it might be well to state here that the historicity of this famous event need no longer be doubted because so much indisputable evidence of different kinds is available today to confirm the statements of this period.

A new period in Jonah's life began after his experience. He is thought to have hurried back to his native city, Jerusalem, to give thanks to God for his deliverance and to resume his prophetic work. However, a second call came to Jonah from God. "Arise, go into Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it that preaching that I bid thee." Especially fitted this time for the task by the memory of his remarkable experience, Jonah took advantage of his second chance to do the work commanded by God.

His message of warning to the people of Nineveh that unless they repented of their sins and turned unto God, they and their city would be destroyed, had a remarkable effect on the people. They believed his message and accepted the warning. Even the king of the people repented, putting on the outward sign of repentance, sack cloth, and ordering all the people to do likewise. They begged God for mercy and turned from their evil way. The Bible said they turned from their "violence," which was the outstanding crime of the city's bloody history. When God really enters a man's heart, that man, or woman, knows at once, without questioning, just what thing in his, or her, life which is wrong and which must be given up. Seeing their repentance and that they had turned from their evil way, God repented of "the evil which he said he would do unto them; and he did it not." While it is evident that the repentance of the Ninevites was not so long-lasting, because they soon went back to their former ways. God forgave them, as he forgives us, being anxious to extend his grace to them.

The action of God, however, seems to have been very displeasing unto Jonah. Being a Jew, first and foremost, Jonah could not escape the nationalistic feeling common to his race and apparently could not help but delight in the misfortunes which came to those of other races round about. When God spared the city of Nineveh, Jonah became despondent and grieved, for he felt that God had lost a good opportunity of wiping out a city which would some day become the enemy of the Jews.

Instead of delighting in the salvation of the people in Nineveh and going back to his work in Jerusalem with good heart, Jonah sulked. God remonstrated with him because of his anger but to no avail. To protect him from the intense heat of the desert sun, God caused a vine to grow up over his head with almost marvellous swiftness. This pleased Jonah greatly but, as quickly as it grew God caused it to wither. This angered the prophet so much that he expressed a wish to die, Jonah had lost his sense of perspective. He was displeased when God saved the lives of thousands of people from destruction, but "took great content" when the same God provided safety from the burning sun for his own comfort. God said, "Thou hast had regard for the gourd, for which thou hast not labored, neither madest it grow . . . And should not I have regard for Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than six score thousand person . . . ?"

Dr. Campbell Morgan declares: "God cares for the suffering, the dying, the dead world. Whatever the conditions of men may be, or whatever the sin the voice of God is heard saying, 'Should not I have pity?' Both Jonah and Jesus beheld the city and wept over it. Thus the voices of Jonah today calls us not only to know God, but to be in sympathy with Him, to feel His pity, to carry out His activity and to show to men what a God he really is."

Grasshopper Menace Feared Returning Once Again

By PAUL HUXLEY

A near-sighted insect with five eyes, whose hearing apparatus and part of its breathing system are in its belly, and which makes a "fiddling" sound by chafing the rim of the fore-wing with a file on the side of the leg—that's the pesky grasshopper.

The locust or grasshopper has been a destructive pest, throughout recorded history. He has been the single-handed cause of many a depression and famine.

Its periodical visitations, in large swarms, in Biblical times, were regarded as plagues, and, in some backward countries, the destruction caused was so severe that the unfortunate inhabitants were obliged, like John the Baptist of old, to eat the locusts.

Over a century ago, the young struggling Mormon colony in Utah could have lost its crops, and maybe perished, through a large grasshopper "invasion." Fortunately, a large flight of seagulls arrived on the scene, soon afterwards, and quickly devoured those insects. Today in Salt Lake City, the beautiful Mormon capital, an imposing monument, with a seagull at the top, commemorates that timely deliverance.

Life History

In the fall the female grasshopper, using her ovipositor, or egg chamber, digs a hole in the ground in which she lays her eggs in clusters or "pods." In June, when the soil is warm, the young grasshoppers, called "nymphs" hatch out and greedily devour grass or any other plant life available. If born in the vegetable garden, they destroy the flowers, fruits, leaves and seeds, also the upper part of carrot roots.

The bodies of the young grasshoppers, which are each the size of a kernel of wheat, are covered with a unique hornlike skin which is soft for an hour or so only, to permit growth, and then hardens and is discarded to permit further development.

Wing pads emerge and increase in size at each skin shedding and, after the fifth "molt", the insect is mature. Young grasshoppers usually take six weeks to become adults.

Of the numerous kinds of grasshoppers the principal ones are the "long-horned" and the "short-horned" varieties. "Short-horned" grasshoppers, often called locusts, have short feelers, small ovipositors and three-jointed feet. They are the common brown field grasshoppers which are identical with the locusts of the Bible, and those associated with the Utah incident.

"Long - horned" grasshoppers have feelers of greater length than their bodies and four-jointed feet. They comprise, amongst others, the cricket like, wingless specimens, the green meadow grasshoppers, and the Katydid. Since all grasshoppers die when the hard frosts come, it goes without saying that the way to prevent a large grasshopper population next year is by destroying as many eggs as possible, and by killing, by poisoning, as many nymphs as you can. — Farm and Ranch Review.

N.A.R. LAUNCHES $1,000,000 PLAN

In order to maintain their lines into the rich north country which already this year has shipped out over 25,000,000 bushels of grain, Northern Alberta Railways will spend approximately $1,000,000 on retracking and ballasting.

Grain shipments from the north have set an all-time record for the NAR, previous high figure was 23 and three quarter million bushels shipped out in the crop year 1947-48 according to J. M. McArthur, general manager.

There is still over 2,000,000 bushels of grain in storage which may be moved before the end of the crop year July 31.

The railway's summer program of maintenance is already well under way, said Mr. McArthur.

Some 30 miles of main line track between Dunvegan yards and Wawson Creek will be rehabilitated. A large part of that work will be carried on in the Peace River subdivision between Carbondale and Lac la Biche.

Hundred pound rails will be used to replace the present 60 pounders on a 25 mile stretch between Wawson and Wembley.

Communication facilities between Edmonton and Dawson Creek, a distance of nearly 500 miles, will be improved by an additional copper wire.

Construction plans call for the erection of new dwellings and enlargement of existing accommodation for company employees at various points. Grain loading and machinery platforms will also be rebuilt or renewed where required.

Ballasting and tracklaying over 100 men give employment to a large number for the greater part of the summer if materials and labor are available as required, said Mr. McArthur.

Newsmen Aren't Just Curious

When your newspaper editor or reporter asks questions, he does not seek to satisfy personal curiosity, but to fulfil his duty to the public, and thereby aid his paper to fulfil its duty to the public.

The public is entitled to know the news and it is the newspaper's duty to gather the news, regardless of whom it affects, and when a stumbling block is thrown in the paper's way, it is an attempt to thwart the rights of the public.

No real newspaperman has a desire to twist or mold the facts to his own taste as some people imagine, for he realizes that truth is stranger than fiction; and when he feels the truth has been given to him he is satisfied.

Girl Says Parents Don't Like Boy Friend

Dear Louisa. — I have gone steady with a young boy for about six months now. He is the nicest boy I have ever known and about the only one I really care to go out with, but my parents don't seem to like him.

They have never forbidden me to go out with him but yet they don't seem to like him. I don't know if I should keep on going with him or if I should quit him and pick up just any kind of a guy just to satisfy my parents. Please help me to decide.

"WORRIED."

Answer — Yours is certainly a touchy problem, "Worried". My advice to you is that you would be best off to try and find out why it is your parents don't seem to care for your boy friend.

Perhaps they have heard some malicious gossip about him, or perhaps they know something they do not want to tell you for fear of hurting you.

If you really care for this boy as much as you say you do, though, don't drop him because of the problem you don't understand. Perhaps in talking to him, you can find some inkling of why your folks don't care for him. And if he is really a nice boy, your parents will no doubt come to like him in time just as you do.

The fact that they have never forbidden you to go out with him is at least a good sign, so just let time and commonsense bring the solution to your trouble, and probably everything will turn out fine.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa—I went with a boy a week and we fell in love and he had to go back in service as his leave was up but he asked me to wait for him. We haven't seen each other in two years but I hear from him very often. He tells me he still loves me and I know I shall always love him. But now his letters are changing although he still says he loves me. I've changed a lot but I want to know could he possibly love me after all these years?

BROWN EYES.

Answer — Some people can be faithful and love each other for years even though they are separated. But it depends on the individual. It is much easier to keep love alive if you are not so far apart but it is not impossible to do so.

The only thing you can do is to have this boy come to see you as soon as he can and then you can find out first hand whether his feelings for you are the same as they were two years ago.

LOUISA.

FLYING SAUCERS SAID GENUINE

The flying saucers are real; they are made not in Russia or in Mars but in the United States; and when the U.S. Air Force sees fit to release information on them it will be good news for the west. So declares Henry J. Taylor, well known American journalist and radio commentator, in the July Reader's Digest. The article is condensed from a broadcast.

The saucers vary in size, Taylor says, from small white disks 20 inches wide to big ones 250 feet across. Nearly all are round; some are flat and edged up like saucers, others are raised in the centre like a pie. Some are guided, others are not. They emit no stream of light or smoke, have no indication of a propelling mechanism, and no sound. They can stand stationary in the air, then dash off to right or left with increasing speed. Their function is an important military secret.

Nine out of ten reports of flying saucers are due to imagination or confusion, Taylor states. But several have been substantiated. Nine flying disks, sighted over the West Coast by United Airlines Captain E. J. Smith, were real. Five seen over the Cascade mountains of Oregon were real. So were a hundred-foot saucer observed over New Mexico in April 1949, and a 250-footer sighted over Madisonville, Ky., on January 7, 1948.

20th Century FARM NEWS

POPULARITY OF MODERN TRACTOR DOESN'T MEAN AN END OF HORSES

The ever-increasing performance and efficiency of the tractor during the first part of this century does not mean that in the near future the horse will have disappeared as a factor of importance in world agriculture, says an editorial of "World Crops," a magazine published in Great Britain and distributed throughout the world.

According to this article, there is no reason to believe, as some prophets do, that the horse "will survive merely as an instrument for sport and recreation, a charming relic of a bygone age." On the contrary, writes the editorialist, the horse has, and will continue to have, a definite part to play in the farm economy for many years to come and, indeed, indefinitely. It will supplement the work of the machine and their roles are complementary, a sort of symbiosis, in fact.

Point is given to this in a recent circular of the British Minister of Agriculture which describes the alarming decline in the number of farm horses during the past decade. The circular stresses the fact that tractors have to depend on imported fuel oil, while the horse "proceeds under its own steam generated by home-grown food."

"Assuming that adequate supplies of tractors, spare parts and fuel can be relied upon, says the writer of "World Crops," there are still many occasions when the horse can be more suitably employed than the tractor. Smaller farms with say 100 to 125 acres of arable land possession only one tractor will almost certainly require two horses at least."

The editorial goes on to point out that the tractor is particularly valuable in getting heavy work done quickly, but numerous light jobs are more cheaply and efficiently done by horses, especially when conditions are wet owing to the lower compressive effect of the horse. In some conditions, "the value of the draft animal as a source of supply of organic manure has to be taken into account."

"It is not really a question of competition between the animal and the tractor, concludes the editorialist, but rather one of deciding the conditions under which each can be used to the best advantage. They are, in fact, complementary and not competitive."

July 1 Deadline For Farm Award

Farmers are reminded by the Hon. D. A. Ure, Minister of Agriculture, that the deadline for the nomination of families for the Master Farm Family award is July 1st. Some nominations have already been received by the District Agriculturists.

Last year about 100 nominations were received in this program, and it is expected that the number nominated this year will be about the same as last year.

Nominations forms are available at all District Agriculturist offices, and the nominations, signed by three nominators and the nominee, must be filed with the District Agriculturist not later than July 1st.

Rain Drenches Alberta As Crop Outlook Better

Heavy rains drenched Alberta last week, brightening crop prospects after farmers spent an anxious month scanning cloudless skies for signs of moisture. Some sectors still need rain, but the general outlook is now good.

Alberta Wheat Pool officials credit the rain with rescuing a drought-ridden crop and brightening the hope for good grain production. They also say a saving feature of the situation was the lateness of the crop.

The past spring has been one of the driest in history. But last week new hope arose when many points received their first heavy rainfall in two years.

Last week's rainfall recorded at Innisfail was 1.50 inches, Hardisty, 2. Czar 4, Mayerthorpe and Edmonton .06.

"Crop growth has been fairly uniform but some districts report germination of coarse grains affecting by drought. The first summerfallow operation is well advanced in many areas and is now becoming general throughout the province.

VARIED VIEWS EXPRESSED ON $25 MILLION CIVIC CENTRE

Businessmen of South Edmonton expressed a variety of opinions on the proposed Detweiler Civic Centre when approached by a Sun reporter this week. While some expressed opposition to the project, general opinion indicated that it was probably a sound scheme, although it is regrettable that Canadian finance is not behind the project.

Since last January a heated controversy has been going on in Edmonton over the proposition presented by L. E. Detweiler, representative of the New York First New Amsterdam Corporation, which proposes to erect a vast $25,000,000 civic centre in the heart of Edmonton.

A. F. Dreger, South Side real estate man, told the Sun: "I think it's a good idea. We need projects of this nature, but why not something on the South Side?"

Mr. Dreger asserted that downtown Edmonton lacked planning, and that he did not feel that business in South Edmonton would be affected by the downtown project.

A different kind of viewpoint was expressed by F. R. Lidgate, South Side businessman:

"If they're willing to invest that much money here, they must think we're real suckers," said Mr. Lidgate. He said the project will drain a tremendous profit out of Edmonton and back into the States, and that either the city or Canadian interests should finance any such schemes.

"In most cities the trend is toward de-centralization," continued Mr. Lidgate, "but the Detweiler scheme is a step in the opposite direction." In reference to the proposed parking facilities for 1,800 cars, Mr. Lidgate thought that many would just as soon stay at home to shop in the neighborhood as go downtown and pay for car parking.

"But at any rate, it wouldn't hurt business in South Edmonton," he concluded.

The viewpoint that such projects should be financed by Canadian, or at least British, capital was once again expressed by a South Edmonton businessman, Mr. McMor-die:

"But if local interests can't finance such a project, I suppose we'll have to leave it to the New Yorkers," he told the Sun.

"But why not a similar development in South Edmonton?" Mr. McMor-die wanted to know.

Roy Noren, South Side businessman, says the Detweiler scheme, even though it is financed by Americans, is a good thing for the city because Canadians don't seem to want to invest in their own country.

"If we waited for Canadians to develop oil fields, there wouldn't be an oil well in the country," he asserted.

Jim Layton, another South Side business leader, told the Sun that "I'll be too bad if we don't get it, for Edmonton is certainly big enough for a project of this nature."

"It's an opportunity," he said, "for taxpayers to get these facilities without having to put up their own money."

"It will bring more business in than people can handle," Mr. Layton continued. "Business all over the city is bound to increase as such a development will draw a lot of money into the city."

"But I'm afraid it's cooked," he added.

Mr. Layton also mentioned that Mr. Detweiler had told him that his firm foresaw a greater future for South Edmonton than for the north side of the city.

Summing up the opinions expressed in the five interviews, one opposed the plan, four were in favor, while two of those thought it should be a Canadian project.

The Old Home Town—By Stanley

Morinville News Notes

MORINVILLE. — The main topic of conversation among the school children these days is exams. And the favorite question among adults: "When are we going to have rain?"

Although no real damage has been reported, many are of the opinion that next week will be the limit that crops can stand without moisture without serious set back.

A large number of people left last week-end for lakes and beaches. One party who travelled north of Edson came back with some Rainbow trout that really were delicious.

Mr. Lucien Robert and Lucien Morissette both from St. Joseph seminary are now home on holidays. Congratulations go this week to Mr. Jack Conway who has been accepted by the Royal Bank and who will start working there in July.

The Morinville hotel which has undergone a real remodelling job is now having the finishing touches made. Next week we will give you full details. The new Neon sign at the hotel has added a great deal of light and is very attractive.

Miss Francoise Chalfoux and Verna Patry have just finished two weeks of holidays.

Mr. Norman Weiss is back home after a two months stay in hospital.

Mr. Charles Bachand, age 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bachand, won first prize $10 at the amateur contest held last Friday by the Radio Ramblers.

Mr. Ernest Bachand is also back from hospital where he underwent an operation.

Little Juliette Pelletier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pelletier, is resting nicely in the Westlock hospital, but will be confined to bed for the summer.

Miss Lapriel Chevalier has received her cap at the General hospital where she is training. A family dinner was held at the family residence in honor of the occasion. Miss Chevalier is now enjoying her holidays before returning to training.

Last Sunday banns were announced for five different weddings scheduled to take place very shortly. Congratulations and best wishes to all.

JOIN THE SWING TO THE MASSEY-HARRIS SELF-PROPELLED THE ONE-MAN HARVESTING MACHINE

Are you one of the many farmers in this district who are thinking of changing over to the combine method of harvesting their crops? If so why not join the swing to the Massey-Harris Self-Propelled. The Self-Propelled is more than just "another combine". It is the most advanced development in harvesting machinery since the invention of the first reaper.

The M-H Self-Propelled is pushing its way through millions of acres of grain lands every year entirely eliminating the extra tractor required on the ordinary combine. It cuts the grain in front of the machine, saving even the grain on the opening round.

It not only saves grain... It saves fuel, time and money, too. Why not investigate the possibilities this machine holds for you. Come in to-day and let us tell you all about it.
